

Sinusitis Guidelines

Recommendation: Acute bacterial sinusitis does not require antibiotic treatment, especially if symptoms are mild of moderate.

Antibiotics should be used only for patients with persistent purulent nasal discharge and facial pain or tenderness who are not improving after seven days or those with severe symptoms of rhinosinutisis, regardless of the duration.