SUSSEX, WI, April 10, 2014 – QuadMed today announced the appointment of veteran healthcare executive Sue Buettner as President, succeeding Tim Dickman who is leaving the company after building a strong management team and expanding QuadMed into a nationally recognized provider of employer-sponsored healthcare solutions.

"I am pleased that Sue will be joining QuadMed to continue building on its remarkable trajectory of growth and success in the marketplace," said Joel Quadracci, Chairman, President & CEO of Quad/Graphics, QuadMed's parent company. "Sue is a proven, capable leader who shares our commitment to redefining healthcare during this transformational time in the healthcare industry. She understands and supports the value of our model, which is focused on improving the quality of patient care and outcomes while reducing overall costs.

Said Ms. Buettner: "I am excited to be part of QuadMed's very bright future. QuadMed has a well-earned reputation for innovation with a solid track record of success in providing employer-sponsored healthcare solutions for employers of all sizes. I expect continued strong interest in QuadMed's solutions, especially in light of rising healthcare costs and the challenges related to implementing healthcare reform legislation."

Added outgoing QuadMed President Tim Dickman: "I am proud of what the QuadMed team has accomplished over the years I have been with the company.
